The Danubia-Adria Symposium on Advances in Experimental Mechanics (DAS 2013) is intended to provide a forum for engineers, researchers, university teachers and students, scientists and industrial experts to present and discuss the current status and impact of modern technology and development in the field of experimental methods in mechanics. Focus will be on recent research and development of experimental and hybrid methods for quality enhancing of structures, service life, and technical safety.

Scientific Committee will support the publication of the best selected papers in distinguished journals.

Symposium Venue

Hotel Zora

Raduča 11
22 000 Primošten, Croatia

Call for papers

 Contributions describing current work in all areas of experimental research and its applications in mechanics are welcome. Topics of particular interest include:

1. conventional and advanced experimental methods in solid mechanics
2. measuring acquisition and data processing
3. relations between experimental methods and numerical simulation
4. experimental and applied biomechanics
5. fatigue and reliability
6. applications

Authors intending to present a paper are requested to submit an abstract in English according to the guidelines available for downloading on the symposium's website:
